

Humanisse Website Proposal

PHASE 1 • FINAL AGREEMENT FOR HUMANISSE • 7 SEPTEMBER 2026

Project Overview

Humanisse teaches life skills — things like ethics, negotiation and emotional intelligence — through comics starring the Professor, the Bot and the Cat. We're building a simple website where people can browse, buy and read these comics online. Phase 1 covers your first ten comics, ready to launch in three weeks.

The project start date would be Monday, 21st September 2026. Sitesmith will need to draft product flows and other requisite processes before then. We will have meetings to discuss the same, making sure everything is secure for smooth operations once the project starts.

| Phase 1 offer  | Commitment                                                       |
|----------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Launch content | Ten complete comics and ten intro videos                         |
| Delivery       | 21 business days from the day we start                           |
| Total price    | INR 35,000                                                       |
| Changes        | Unlimited visual tweaks, at no extra cost, within the plan below |

What You Get

- A homepage that introduces Humanisse and shows all ten comics.
- A page for each comic, with its cover, description, price and a free preview video.
- Customers can buy comics one at a time, or as bundles you choose the price for.
- Customers create a free account to buy comics and re-read them anytime without paying again.
- A clean reading screen that works well on phones, tablets and computers, with easy navigation, zoom and a full-screen view.
- Standard pages — About, Contact, Terms, Privacy, Refunds — plus basic visit and sales tracking so you can see how the site is doing.
- Readable text, clear buttons and keyboard-friendly navigation throughout.

Ten comics are included in this price. If you'd like to add more later (say, up to around 25), we'll agree a separate fee once you know the numbers. Uploading new comics yourself isn't part of this build — we upload the first ten for you, and can either add more for you later or build a simple upload tool as a separate project.

Keeping the Comics Safe

We'll do everything reasonably possible to stop people copying or sharing your comics — but no website can promise 100% protection. Here's what we'll put in place:

- The original comic files are kept private and are never publicly accessible.
- There's no download button or PDF — comics can only be read inside the website.
- Every page carries a hidden mark linking it back to the reader who bought it.

- Only one device can be logged into an account at a time, and we can block an account if we spot misuse.
- We'll turn off copy-paste and right-click saving, and hide the comic if someone switches browser tabs.

These steps make copying difficult and not worth the trouble — but they can't fully stop someone determined to take a screenshot, and no website can. Fully blocking screenshots would need more specialised (and more expensive) technology, which sits outside this project.

Once someone buys a comic, they can keep reading it for as long as Humanisse runs the website, and as long as they don't get refunded or lose access for misuse. We'll test that free accounts can't read paid comics, that shared links can't be used to sneak in on someone else's account, and that every payment unlocks the right comic. Handling customer questions and refunds is on Humanisse.

Cost & Payments

| Item                | Amount     |
|---------------------|------------|
| Total Phase 1 price | INR 35,000 |

This price covers everything listed above — the full website, all ten comics and videos. It doesn't cover anything from Phase 2 (see below), extra comics, or the small ongoing running costs explained further down.

| When                                        | Amount     |
|---------------------------------------------|------------|
| Before we start                             | INR 12,250 |
| After you approve the test website (Week 3) | INR 15,750 |
| At launch                                   | INR 7,000  |

Each payment is tied to a step being finished, not to a date. If Razorpay takes a little longer to approve your account, only the go-live date moves — nothing else changes.

The website, domain and related accounts belong to Humanisse. Once you've paid in full, we hand over everything you need to run it yourselves.

The additional 13 comics you mentioned will be comfortably added in Phase 2, for an additional fee of INR 5,000.

Three Week Plan

| Timing                       | What happens                                                                                                                 |
|------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Before Day 1                 | You approve the project and pay the first 35% (INR 12,250). You send us your comics, prices and any account details we need. |
| Week 1 — Business Days 1–7   | We build the homepage, comic catalog and customer accounts.                                                                  |
| Week 2 — Business Days 8–14  | We build the reading screen, the comic protection and the video player.                                                      |
| Week 3 — Business Days 15–21 | We connect payments, upload your comics and test everything. You approve the test site and pay 45% (INR 15,750).             |
| By Day 21                    | We go live. You pay the final 20% (INR 7,000), and we hand everything over.                                                  |
| 14 days after launch         | We keep fixing any bugs and making the visual tweaks you ask for, at no extra cost.                                          |

This is a 21 business-day plan — Monday to Friday, skipping public holidays — so the actual calendar time will run a bit past three weeks. It also depends on getting your comics, videos and feedback on time; if anything looks like it will slip, we'll flag it straight away.

Changes & Ongoing Costs

You can ask for as many visual changes as you like — colours, text, layout — at no extra cost, right up until 14 days after launch. Bigger changes, like new features or extra comics, would need a separate quote.

In that same 14 days, we'll also fix any bugs we find and check the site works properly on the latest Chrome, Safari, Edge and Firefox, across common phone and tablet sizes.

Running the website costs roughly INR 2,500–5,500 a month for hosting and storage — this is separate from our fee and paid directly to those services. Razorpay also takes about 2% per payment. If you'd like us to keep maintaining the site after launch, that's an optional INR 2,500 a month for a monthly check-up, routine upkeep and up to an hour of small changes or support — it's not a 24/7 fix-it service, and it's not required for your free 14-day revision window.

That monthly figure is a starting estimate. Once the site is live and we can see what it actually needs, we're happy to sit down and revisit a retainer with you — priced at bare maintenance cost for whatever the site genuinely requires at that point, not a fixed markup.

If it would help, we can also put together analytics and monitoring reports for you directly, rather than leaving you to check a dashboard yourself.

What We Need From You

We'll handle accounts, payments and video hosting through trusted, ready-made services rather than building these from scratch. Payments go through Razorpay, so customers can pay by UPI, card or net banking. The Razorpay account will be in Humanisse's name — we'll set it up and test it, but verifying your business with Razorpay and receiving the money is on Humanisse.

Before we start, we need:

- Your ten comics — final artwork, page order, covers, descriptions and prices.
- One short intro video per comic, with captions or a transcript.
- Your brand name, logo, fonts, domain name and a working contact email — if you already own the domain, we'll use it; we'll only register a new one if you need one.
- Access to set up your website, hosting and Razorpay accounts (these stay in Humanisse's name).
- Text for your About, Contact, Terms, Privacy and Refund pages — we can draft these for your review if needed.
- Confirmation that you have the rights to use the artwork and videos.
- One person on your side to give feedback and approve each step.

What's Not Included

---

This build doesn't include a self-service tool for uploading new comics yourself, physical-book sales, subscriptions, quizzes, certificates, multilingual editions, or a mobile app — all of these can be scoped separately later if you want them.

Looking further ahead, Phase 2 could add newer comics, things like live or recorded masterclasses with outside experts, workshop bookings for schools or companies, a podcast hub, and a community space for readers to discuss and write. None of this is part of Phase 1, but the site will be built in a way that makes adding it later easier — though we can't promise zero rework when we get there.

Next Steps

---

Once this agreement is signed, send us one comic and one video so we can check the format, and confirm your brand and domain name — and we'll get started.

Agreement & Signature

---

By signing below, Humanisse agrees to the scope, pricing, timeline and terms set out in this document, confirming it as the final, binding agreement for the Humanisse Phase 1 website.

Kollath George

Proprietor, Humanisse

Signature

---

Date

---